

“Q, what advice would you give to someone considering an apprenticeship in the Defence Nuclear Enterprise?”

A, I think it's a really good way of getting your foot in the door of the Ministry of Defence as there's loads of opportunities, whether that's like engineering or any other apprenticeship. I'm doing Business Administration, which is quite a broad apprenticeship. And like I said, the opportunities that come with that are great! I'm young, and I've got loads of room for growth ahead of me” Varad, January 2025

#NAW2025

How would you design a nuclear power source you'd be happy sleeping next to?

Defence
Nuclear Enterprise
No challenge like it

“Q. what's the best part of being an apprentice?”

A, for me, the best part of being an apprentice is seeing a side of work life that I've never seen before. Obviously, the Ministry of Defence is quite confidential, for me, a bit of a mystery, and it was this daunting sort of entity that I was never going to get in to. The apprenticeship has allowed me to get myself through the door and see a new world, new opportunities, and new aspects that I can develop and follow in my career.” Anna, January 2025

“Q. What challenges have you faced in your apprenticeship, and how did you overcome them?”

A, being new to the business overall has provided lots of different challenges, for example, to start with, I didn't even know how to put together a professionally written email! The apprenticeship work is really engaging and everything I've learned is completely new to me which has really helped me to build in confidence and become more professional.”
Sanjana, January 2025